

I am writing to urge the FCC to NOT overturn the NJ Do Not Call laws that are currently in effect. Before this Do Not Call List was formed, our household received on average of 6 calls per day from telemarketers. Most of which took place at dinner time and in the evenings. Even after requesting that we be removed from their lists, this would continue. It eventually got so bad that we were forced to leave our answering machine on at all times just to avoid answering these annoying calls. Sine the law went into effect, these calls have dropped off dramatically. We now receive perhaps 2 a week. PLEASE do not overturn this law as it has made our home and family time much better.

Thank you.
